"There is only one question," she said. "Did Teresa Halbach tell her life's secret before she died?" Opinions ran high among the more than 2,000 people who packed the courtroom. The courtroom was packed from the moment Avery's public defender, Jerry Buting, entered, although space was limited for two days and the audience spilled into the gallery. We're sending a few more people to a terrible place. Probably. It's a little difficult to explain. A place where we're not supposed to go. A place of only trouble. A place that all of the most helpful people are trying to forget. And the hell of it is... we can't help them. We can't stop them. We can't even kill them. The people we come in contact with are often times something no one should have to go through. How do you fight an enemy like this? Well, if you're really lucky, you might just start. And in this world, that could be all that's needed. Welcome to the hell of it, and more importantly, the beginning of a hell of a story. What's new:

Is now complete. This year, we find ourselves in a new time, a new place. Things are getting weird and the question is, how will you handle it? Will you play tactically, find the best route to victory, or maybe even get into a fight? This is the one game for all fans of strategy and tactics. The Galaxy is weird. And that is our start point. Then, in amongst all this complexity, you must discover what role each of your cards play. No? Okay: Security, Media, Banking, and Security, Media and Banking, then a piece of mixed Media. Far off to the side you see the rest of the cards in the deck. They all have a special ability. The event takes place on the moon. What Moon? Well, one of the neutral planets. We can assign players to either one of these worlds; or to the Earth. Pick the planet you wish to start on. Round up all of your cards and then place them on the table. You want to have the most cards on the table, so you might want to shuffle it once into a new deck. Have all players take 9 of these cards. When I say "9", I mean that it should be 9 of each card type. There will be a round of player action. You roll the dice and move the players around. They can cycle through the deck, place down new cards, swap out a card with another, and so on. I will keep track of the number of cards you have, and how many cards each player has. It sounds complicated, but it isn't hard. If any of you want to give me a hand (or sometimes, two), just email me at capaday@gmail.com and I'll help you out. We are all friends here. Apologies for the uncharacteristically slow writing here at The War of the Butterfly. Oh, well, saving time isn't all that pressing. Onwards! Aaah, but wait! There's someone else here! They are possessed! Aaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaah! Hi! I'm back on The War of The Butterfly again. Here, I'm going to be explaining everything that has happened in the last Battle Edition, and the last few few days. As usual, we must start with the basics. (Or we'll die.) Let's go. 2016 is here - the year of the Dragon. After
