The mission of Solous is to kill badness and save the goodness. To do that, you must move across the grid and collect data, while doing so you need to look around for the next red dot. Try to collect as many of them as you can, without ramming into other players or leaving the red area in your wake. How to play: - Select a bit - Position yourself to the destination - Move along the energy line to the top point of the screen to collect more data At the start of the game, a set number of players are selected to play. The players can each select a bit and set their own destination point. Each player may control their character in the same manner as normal Solous; moving their cursor with the keyboard or using the gamepad, as well as trying to collect the data. The live board displays the names of the players and their respective scores. Collecting data allows players to upgrade their bit. Players can choose to upgrade different options on their bit, if they wish. Some choices will improve the speed of the bit, while others will upgrade the energy and health of the bit. Other player information is displayed in the bottom of the screen, including level, name, and other things. Each player is required to use their own bit, a unique item unique to each player. Each player will always start with their own bit on the board. Players are free to roam the grid and attempt to collect the maximum amount of data. Once a player collects the maximum amount of data, their bit is then removed from the board. After all players have played, the highest scoring player is shown. Players must perform actions quickly, moving along the grid as quickly as they can to collect data. Players must be aware of how their bit moves, though, and be careful not to collide with the other bits. Each time a bit moves, a dot will change color. Players must be careful to avoid these dots as they will destroy the bit and the player. Players can gain energy by colliding with the dots on the board. Players can gain data by leaving their bit behind the red dots on the board. Players can gain points by collecting data as fast as they can and at the right time. Players can gain points by collecting data of a certain color on the board. Game modes can be played solo or with two players, and with different difficulty settings. Each mode can be played with a random c9d1549cdd campaign to bring awareness of Mental Illness to Women Aspen Special Mental health stigmas often prevent people from seeking help because they associate mental illness with weakness. Through awareness activities, we will show that those who struggle with mental illness are the same strength as anyone else, and be able to overcome challenges on their own. Women United Network Association Inc. is requesting that the ladies in the Aspen public schools participate in their Embracelet special and help raise awareness for those who struggle with mental illness. This organization provides women who may have struggled with finding mental health help.

Monday, June 8, 2017 Jessa Condel, Aspen, CO Jessa will use fear to instill self-worth and help women help others. My name is Jessa Condel and I am a high school student in Aspen, Colorado. In middle and high school, when I had mental health issues, I was scared to speak up. I feared that people might think that I was weak, and not understand why it was happening. Since coming to Aspen Hole, I am talking a lot more and coming out of my shell and speaking up about mental health. I enjoy watching documentaries, playing art and writing, so I thought, I would do a documentary about mental health. I enjoy helping others and watching how much they help others. I hope this project helps others with their mental health issues also. Jessa Condel, Aspen, CO The Arvada Center video The purpose of the Arvada Center video is to provide an avenue for potentially vulnerable kids to open up about their thoughts and struggles in a safe environment. The center has a variety of mentors and program options in place to help. They provide kids and young adults with the tools they need to regain a positive sense of self and combat the negative voices that have "hardwired" them over the years, before they start actively using harmful substances. How to schedule a visit Since the video is created for adults, materials should be provided. If you need a referral from a health care provider, please email the Support Team at arvadjacenter@arvadahealth.org. Mentors are available year-round. The minimum time commitment for a visit is an hour, but sometimes scheduling around busy schedules or the unexpected workday. Channings Farm and Aspen Animal Hospital was founded in 2007 by owners of the Firefly commune. The
