
Bobby Hutcherson - Montara (1975) Free

This is a mid-late 1970's Bobby Hutcherson album. It is a bit rough and has some rough noises on it. I am going to be honest and tell you that the track listing is not really correct on this album. Bobby Hutcherson: Of Montara. 1. T. J. Prosser. No time to tell the tale, Of the woman who came from far, To the land where the sun sets in the sea. If you like the album, you may also want to see the other albums that I have uploaded to the site. Each of my albums has all of the original jazz albums contained in them. I am not out to make money selling these albums, I just want them to be available, just as I would want them available to anyone else. Each album is complete, some are not in their original format, but I have made the original as best I can and would like to make available to everyone who wants to listen to them. Thank you to everyone who has downloaded and listened to my music. Also thank you to the CD companies who allow the music to be uploaded to the Internet. For those who do not know, here is a quick explanation of what the site is all about. I post all the albums that I think are worth listening to, and once they are uploaded, I try to find out as much information as I can about each album. This includes the album art, original titles, and any other information that I can find. I make no claim to be a discographer, so when I say that I discovered or rediscovered this album, I do not make any claim as to whether I am correct or not. I have tried to find as much information as possible and included as much information as I could find. I am always open to any information that you may have or corrections that you may want to make to the information that I have provided on any album. If anyone can find any more information about any of the albums or can correct any mistakes that I have made, please let me know. If anyone has any questions, or if anyone can recommend any other albums to upload to the site, then please let me know. If you find any information that you think would be of interest to others, then please let me know also. Identification of arylamide- and aldehyde-glutathione conjugates with N-acetyl-L-
