Photoshop CS5.1 Extended MAC: Q: Excel - Ranks of values of a given column I have an Excel sheet where each row has a q and p value assigned to it. These q values need to be compared to all the p values and produce ranks for the q values. For example, if one q value is ranked 4 and the other q is ranked 30 then I need to have one line that says "30 > 4". This sort of result is needed based on the rows, but the p values are constant for each row. A: Assuming that: You always have one more p-value than q-value. The p-values are unique Then you can do this in the end of your column where your p-values are (in this example your last 4 rows): =IF(AND(V2=4,V3""),(V2-V3),"") OR =IF(AND(V2=30,V3""),(V3-V2),"") Other possibilities: =IF(AND(V2=4,V3""),"",V3-V2,""),V2) If you have no duplicated values (all these formulas yield the same result), you can omit the second argument of IF() and use 1, 0 instead. As for the speed of these formulas, the fastest one: =IF(AND(V2=4,V3""),V2-V3,V2) Book review: Climate Change and
